Kurt Pany is a professor of accounting at Arizona State University. He received his Ph.D. from the University of Illinois. He has served as a member of the AICPA's Auditing Standards Board and as an academic fellow with the AICPA Auditing Division. Ray Whittington is the dean of the Driehaus College of Business at DePaul University, having previously served as chairman of the accounting department at San Diego State University. He received his Ph.D. from the University of Houston. He has also been the Director of Audit Research for the AICPA and a member of the AICPA's Auditing Standards Board.

Brand New book condition. I was worried this wouldn't be the same because my school has a different front cover, but looking at the table of contents, it is the same exact thing!! even the first page of the chapter is identical. Way more affordable than the hardcover.

Very difficult read. Lots of info. Reads like a technical manual. It's one of the more difficult to read textbooks I've had to use. But... what choice do you have? The professor is going to assign the book and there's not much you can do about it

The outside of the book is moderately worn and torn. Otherwise a good book.

I just noticed the study guide had 2 (6&7) chapters of the answers ripped out. How can you tell something for $130 and it's incomplete. Any replacement of the answers to these 2 chapters?

Great!!!!

It's a very helpful book. Very detailed and good source for CPA.

If this is your book for class I'm sorry.

During the 16 years that I have taught Financial Auditing at the university level I have been constantly on the lookout for the best available book. I chose Whittington & Pany because (1) it is succinct, (2) it presents auditing concepts clearly (although the authors do sugar coat the accounting scandals of the past 20 years and fail to give credit where credit is due by naming the firms involved in them), (3) the page layout is attractive and easy to read, and most importantly (4) my students preferred it over other texts (one student told me that she chose my class after looking through the assigned texts for all of the Auditing sections, an excellent idea). The current (15th ed.) has been brought up to date with a limited discussion of Sarbanes-Oxley and the PCAOB. The material is obviously dry, but I found that it was possible to make my classes more interesting by incorporating newspaper accounts of the more egregious audit failures in the assigned readings, and by being honest about the arrogance, greed and stupidity that are all too typical of the accounting profession today. This practice has brought complaints by the local offices of the major firms, to which my department head replied that they are welcome to come speak to the classes to explain their side of the story. To date, they have not accepted the invitation.
