Dream Man

Synopsis

Marlie Keen was trying to lead a quiet, ordinary life. She thought the knowing—the clairvoyance that allowed her to witness crimes as they happened—had been destroyed in the nightmare of her past. Then one night it returned with a vengeance, and she desperately needed to find someone to make it stop. Detective Dane Hollister of the Orlando police department had never met anyone like Marlie. He had doubts about her clairvoyance, but there was no doubt how much he desired her. Her soft, sweet scent set his blood afire, and he wanted to wrap her in his arms and chase the sadness from her eyes. To Marlie, Dane was all heat and hard muscle, and he made her body come alive as it never had before. But not even she could foresee where their passion would lead: a hungry quest for the elusive, dreamy ecstasies of love...and a dangerous journey into the twisted mind of a madman who would threaten their happiness and their lives....

Setting: Contemporary Orlando, Florida Sensuality: 8 Never comfortable with her fame as an empath, lovely Marlie Keen has led a life free of clairvoyant incidents for several years. But her quiet, ordinary existence is shattered when the unwanted ability to read a murderer's mind returns with a vengeance. Knowing that publicity is sure to follow, Marlie nevertheless tells the police what she knows. Tough detective Dane Hollister first scoffs at her claim that she "sees" the serial killer who's terrorizing Orlando, but it doesn't take long to convince him that she's telling the truth. It takes even less time for him to recognize the attraction between himself and Marlie, but Marlie is incredibly vulnerable to the visions assaulting her and Dane must put his fierce desire on hold while he tries to track down a bloodthirsty madman. A perfect example of why Linda Howard is a leading author of romantic suspense, Dream Man offers a plot that unfolds with precision, suspense that is taut and spine tingling, passion hot enough to peel paint, and breathtaking romance. This is Howard in top form. --Lois Faye Dyer --This text refers to an out of print or unavailable edition of this title.

Detective Dane Hollister has a tough life. He hasn't had a day off in a month, a serial killer with a predilection for slashing women to death is on the prowl and now a psychic who claims to witness the murders through the killer's eyes has come forward to share her visions. As far as he's concerned, the psychic is as twisted as the slasher. For her part, from the moment she walks into the Orlando police station, Marlie Keen is sorry she offered to help. Hollister (and everyone else) treats her gift of "knowing" with suspicion, but the detective's investigation into Marlie's past convinces him that her gift is genuine. Hollister moves into Marlie's home, nursing her through terrifying and exhausting bouts of clairvoyance. At the same time the two ease the sexual tension threatening to overtake them-which if it doesn't quite make for good police work, does make for steamy romance. The author (Heart of Fire) has obviously done her homework on the procedure used to develop a serial killer's profile and brings this process cinematically alive. Hollister makes the perfect romantic hero. As Hollister's partner says about him: "He's street-smart, woods-savvy, and sly as a fox. A real throwback. Mean, too. Damn, can he be mean! But he turns to putty where women are concerned." Howard's writing is compelling, especially the murder scenes. If you ignore an insipid epilogue bogged down in psychic overkill, this is Howard's best work yet. *uSAT NYT bestselling author Linda Howard has outdid herself with another romantic suspense..It's a must read!.....After six years of trying to put the past behind her, Marlie Keen is once again struck by one of her own worst nightmares....a vision! Known at one time for being a world renown psychic by working with all types of law enforcement, she gave it all up when she almost died at the hands of a demented killer vowing never to do that type of work ever again. Instead, she packed up everything she owned only to re-locate in Orlando, Fla. where she had been vision free that is until now while she found herself looking through the eyes of a killer once again. Homicide detective Dane Hollister, a tough no-nonsense cop was in one foul mood as he and his partner Alex,just left one of the most gruesome and bloodiest crime scenes they have ever seen with no forsenic evidence, fingerprints or DNA left behind. As the two of them are called into their superior's office and are introduced to Marlie Keen, she recalls her story step-by-step of the killer's movements seen through his eyes only to conclude that she is a psychic. Upon hearing this, Dane is rude, arrogant and obnoxious to her until she stands up, looks him right in the eyes and defiantly tells him off before storming out. The one thing Dane never had any trouble with was in the female department but one look into those beautiful blue eyes, he knew without a doubt that he wanted to see more of her but being a cop, he still had his suspicions of her and she was about to be checked out. After learning everything there was about her, and her infamous known notoriety regarding her past, Dane found himself slowly becoming involved with Marlie. Not only was he determined to erase some of those hidden fears she harbored so deeply but he needed her to know that she could trust him as well. When the chemistry between them comes to a mounting boil, it soon becomes a sexual relationship between the two of them and Dane realized for the first time in his life, he has fallen in love. Could she ever love him? When another exploding vision erupts on Marlie showing a horrific crime scene in its wake, it soon becomes apparent of Marlie's identity to a serial killer right on her heels. As Marlie is hunted down like an animal in the dead of night, Dane has only two purposes as he plays a deadly game of cat-and-mouse with one of the most sadistic serial killers he has ever known. First, he must find and kill the snake before he gets to Marlie first and secondly and most importantly, to tell the woman he loves how he truly feels and only prays that she feels the same way about him.....thank you

I haven't read a book in less than 24 hours in a while, but once I started Dream Man I just couldn't stop reading. It was the perfect mix of suspense and romance! This is my first Linda Howard book and I'm ready to download the next :)

I love Linda Howard. As of right now this is my favorite book. It has mystery. It has sex. It has humor. I have read it MANY times. I recommend everyone read it at least once.

I'd read this book years ago; it was my first Linda Howard book. I wanted something I enjoyed as the first read on my Pad. I enjoyed it just as much the second time around, and will be adding more of my favorites to my Kindle Library. Ms. Howard's writing is generally fast paced, suspenseful, romantic, and often very sexy. She leans toward the macho he-man type of hero, so if that isn't your thing... Her heroines are equally strong, though, and independent, so it's always a good match.

Hollister makes the perfect romantic hero. As Hollister's partner says about him: "He's street-smart, woods-savvy, and sly as a fox. A real throwback. Mean, too. Damn, can he be mean! But he turns to putty where women are concerned.After the first murder, when the two detective's kept running into dead ends, Marlie come to the Police station, told the Lt. what she had seen (her Vision) Hollister thinks she's lying thinks maybe she's apart of it that she was there when it happened...he checked out her alibi she checks out, So she is no longer a suspect in the case. then the following week, She has another Vision She Sees a second murder, Hollister and his partner are not sure if they believe her or not but the murder is reported right away So they have to wait for it to be reported. it's finally reported after the Detective check things out it's just as Marlie Says, Dane fly's to Boulder Co. and talks to a doctor that treated Marlie.and a friend of Dane's had Faxed him a bunch of articles(news paper) from her past. Marlie Keen, is an empathic psychic who starts seeing horrific murders through the eyes of the murderer. Det.Dane Hollister (homicide) is investigating the murders, is fiercely attracted to Marlie despite his reservations about her psychic abilities. thanks to her past experiences reading others "emotions" Marlie is Extremely uncertain of her own intense emotional reaction to Dane.* Dane and Marlie go to his partner's for dinner, During dinner Marlie has another Vision, in this Vision the killer looks in the mirror and she Sees the killers face, the next morning Marlie go to the station to a sketch artist now they have a photo of the killer.they plastered the sketch all over the news, the killer sees it knows someone has seen him, now he's gotta find out who and take care of the loose ends. Dane takes Marlie to the house of the last murder, Marlie Reluctant to go up to the bedroom where Marilyn(murder victim) had died Marlie was concentrating on Marilyn and was in a trans for an half hour Dane Couldn't bring her out, when their leaving the house reporters were shoving mics in her face. the only person that knew she was there was Dane. Marlie Feels Very Betrayed by Dane. and is furious with him... Because Dane had not told her otherwise Marlie Believes that Dane has Used her that their relationship was all a set up and only used her as bate, for the killer. Marlie get's fired from her job, goes back to Dane's house his partner comes to the house because Dane's going to be late he didn't want her alone, She asked his partner about Dane He explained Dane to her while left her rethinking her decision.I Really Liked this book!! my 3rd Linda Howard Novel....~Goes on My Keeper Shelf~
