In the early history of Cooper County, Missouri the second most historical spot is a crossroads in the southwestern part of the county called New Lebanon, Missouri. Playing an important part in the role of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church in Missouri was the reason for the importance of this crossroads. Well the church and cemetery. This history does not strictly confine itself to New Lebanon Alone. Facets of the history of other parts of Cooper County, as well as other counties are records. The history is generally arranged into four sections, each in more or less chronological order: the church, the school, the community, and the cemetery. This is a must read for anyone with genealogical interest or historical interest in the county.
